

LIVING FLAG OF JAPANESE BOYS TO BE FEATURE

Sons of Nippon 2000 Strong are Already Signed Up for Part in Big Parade

Made up of 100 Japanese boys each carrying a lighted lantern, a huge living Star-Spangled Banner will swing through the city streets tomorrow night in the big lantern parade which every Japanese in the city seems to be taking an interest in.

This flag will be carried by boys of the Aiyukai Association of the Makiki Japanese church. Each of its 48 stars will be formed by a lighted lantern, and alternate rows of red and white lanterns will form the stripes.

The Aiyukai Association won the first prize in the lantern parade last season, and it is freely predicted that their flag will make a good race for first honors again this time.

Molokai Japanese, 400 strong, of one uniform and marching in order with their lighted lanterns will form a prominent feature of tomorrow night's parade.

The Japanese Carpenters' union, "Yagata" as it is styled in the tongue of Nippon, has prepared a pleasure houseboat, which will be decorated with artificial flowers and lanterns.

Unfolding the spirit of Washington's birthday and the spirit of Japan, the Honolulu Japanese Sake Brewery has prepared a cherry tree in full blossom for its float.

The Japanese Barbers' Association will display a big barber pole in the parade.

Hawaiian pineapple will be the chief feature of the section of the parade in which Wahiawa Japanese farmers have arranged to march.

It is announced today that 250 Koreans will march with the Japanese in the parade.

So far nearly 200 persons have signed up for a part in the big procession, and more are coming in to the Japanese headquarters to put their names down.

Following are the entries to date: Japanese Buddhist Association, 100; Japanese middle school, 200; Central Japanese Institute, 150; Japanese Young Men's Christian Association, 100; Palama Kokio Kai, 300; South King Street Japanese residents, 300; Molokai, 400, and Makiki residents, 300.

Committeemen in charge of the lantern parade are as follows:

K. Wada, K. Kurokawa, S. Sazawa, S. Kimura, A. Mizumi, K. Izumi, Y. Pua, G. Misawa, K. Hara, S. Tsuchiya, S. Onaha, K. Matsuzawa, K. Yazu, J. Mizuno, T. Wada, G. Taji, S. Moriyama, M. Yamashiro, M. Komeya, S. Ueda, I. Nakayama, H. Hayashi, I. Matsuda, D. Shimazu, S. Nakashima, T. Teshima, T. Murata, F. Okasaka, I. Shima, K. Yamamoto, S. Takahashi and O. Okasaki.

After the A. J. Hub parade this evening, the opening event of the Carnival, machines participating in the parade will have parking space reserved for them during the Carnival ball and other features to follow immediately.

When the parade starts, tickets will be issued to every machine that enters, bearing a number which indicates the place to take in the procession. When they finish, after coming through the capitol grounds, across Miller to Beretania, drivers whose tickets bear an odd number will turn to the left, while even numbers turn

SIGNS POINT TO GREAT NORTHERN STAYING ON RUN

Cal E. Stone Announces That Advertising Agent is Coming for Fresh Material

All signs point to the Great Northern being kept on the Honolulu run. Cal E. Stone, general traffic manager of the Great Northern Pacific, arrived on the Great Northern this morning, and said the decision as to the line's future schedule will be made when he gets back to San Francisco.

He also made a statement which sounds strongly as though the company intends keeping the palatial liner running to this port. Mr. Stone stated that on the Great Northern's next trip Mr. Ryan, the company's advertising agent, is coming to gather new information about the islands to incorporate in new folders and publicity literature.

"That doesn't look exactly discouraging, does it, Mr. Stone?" inquired a Star-Bulletin reporter. The steamship man replied "No, it doesn't."

Concerning the sugar shipping situation, Mr. Stone made another significant statement. "We aren't going to take up that right now," he said. "We have to decide on the future schedule first."

May Come Here Direct.

It is also possible that the Great Northern on future trips may come direct to Honolulu from San Pedro and stop at Hilo only on the return trip. Mr. Stone says he is here to sound the sentiment of Honolulu business and hotel men concerning the change. "We are making that experiment with the Northern Pacific," he added.

He said the Great Northern has had better support from local pineapple packers than from any other source, and said Honolulu merchants who have benefited from increased business due directly to the Great Northern should show their appreciation by turning over a share of their freight business to the steamer.

"I am here to look over the situation a little and see what the people here seem to think of the Great Northern," said Mr. Stone. "We put her on the run after lots of doubtful advice, not to mention hammer-wielding."

"We have secured the high-class passenger business we set out to get, and on this voyage we could have filled double the number of de luxe suites we have on the ship. Our passengers demand the best suites first."

While in Hilo, Mr. Stone spoke enthusiastically of passenger traffic, and said he will decide the continuation when he returns to the coast. He said Kilauea volcano is the main attraction of the trip.

CAPTURE THREE OF FIVE WHO ESCAPED

Three of five boys who escaped from the boys' industrial school at Waihee last Friday were captured at Waihee yesterday and returned to the institution. The boys captured are Russians recently sent to the school for committing a series of robberies. The other two boys are still at large.

to the right. The machines will be lined up with their headlights facing the curb, and as they come will form in line toward Beretania. If it be that there are more machines than can be parked on Miller street, the line will be continued on Beretania. Autoists are requested to bear in mind, odd numbers to the left, even numbers to the right, so as to prevent confusion.

Flottman of the Great Northern Times sold 825 copies of the paper, breaking all records by 200 papers. Flottman is the radio operator. He said he was in touch with San Francisco all the way over. The steamer's wireless set is Marconi.

THE KOREANS IN THE PARADE.

Honolulu, Hawaii, Feb. 21, 1916.

Editor Star-Bulletin:

Will you kindly allow me to use your valued columns to correct a statement issued in the Nippon Jiji last Saturday regarding the lantern parade on Washington's birthday, wherein the editor expressed himself as highly pleased in that the Koreans were to take their rightful position in the rear of the Japanese, thus showing their subjection to the Japanese. Therefore this position of the Japanese editor is subversive of truth, as the Koreans are as free as any other nationality here in Honolulu and they do not consider themselves as in any manner subject to the Japanese. The Koreans' position in the lantern parade is due to the wish of the Ad Club, and in respect to the United States alone the Koreans accepted the position assigned them in the parade, and not in any sense as being obligatory to the Japanese. There will be 300 Koreans in this parade, members of the Korean National Association. Yours truly,

H. K. AHN,
Supt. Korean National Association.

JARRETT DEMURS TO DE FOLCO'S ACTION

A demurrer to the $9919.99 damage suit brought against him by Eugenio de Folco was filed in circuit court today by High Sheriff William P. Jarrett. The sheriff alleges, among other things, that de Folco's complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a suit, and that he has no legal capacity to sue. He further says that he was acting within his authority when he attached the costumes and other paraphernalia of the De Folco Opera Company.
